INVESTMENT POLICY

Category: Investment fund. INTERNATIONAL EQUITY

Management objective: The reference used by the managers is the STOXX Europe 600 Net Return. The reference index is only used for comparison purposes.

Investment policy:

The Fund has an exposure to equities in excess of 75%, with no predetermination in market capitalization, sectors, markets or countries. It can invest in emerging countries. Investment in low market capitalization assets can negatively impact the liquidity of the fund. The rest of it is exposed to deposits and listed and non-listed money market instruments that are liquid and have at least intermediate credit rating (minimum BBB- or equivalent by rating agency of recognised prestige). Up to 10% of the fund's assets can be invested in fixed income financial Collective Investment Schemes (CISs) considered suitable assets, harmonised or otherwise, which may belong to the same group as the Manager or not. Exposure to current risk can range from 0% to 100%.

The investment criteria in terms of the selection of assets is governed by the fundamental technical analysis and momentum, seeking out assets undervalued by the market and assets rising in value that are expected to remain robust. More than 35% of the assets may be invested in securities issued or guaranteed by an EU Member State, an Autonomous Community, a Local Authority, International Organisations of which Spain is a Member State and the States with solvency no lower than that of Spain.

The CIS diversifies investments in the assets mentioned above in at least six different issuers. The investment of securities in a single issue may exceed 30% of the CIS assets.

The fund may transact with derivatives traded on organised derivative markets for the purpose of hedging. This strategy has risks due to the possibility of hedging not being perfect and leverage it involves.

The investment strategy involves high turnover rate within the portfolio. This can increase costs and affect profitability.

Complementary information on investments:

Managers take as reference the performance of the index Stoxx Europe 600 net return (Bloomberg code: SXXR), it is comprised by the 600 most representative companies from European stock exchanges including UK, Nordic countries and Switzerland, its return includes dividends after taxes. The investment criteria for the selection of assets and securities belonging to the portfolio are governed by fundamental analysis and momentum, seeking out assets undervalued by the market and sharply bullish assets that are expected to remain robust, ensuring, in addition to solidity and guarantees, the generation of satisfactory returns. Efficient portfolio management techniques referred in Order EHA/888/2008 may be used; specifically, the Fund may proceed with the temporary acquisition of assets with buyback agreements on public debts from OECD countries (without ruling out OECD fixed income securities) with a minimum rating equivalent to that of the Kingdom of Spain at the time and maturity of less than 7 days. This strategy is carried out to manage the portfolio more efficiently and economically appropriate for the fund because it is cost-effective. Said cost will be paid to OECD financial institutions with recognized prestige that may belong or not to the same group as the depository or the manager. The credit ratings of the securities and/or issuers mentioned above are those of the major ratings agencies. In any case, the manager shall assess the solvency of the assets in which the fund invests, refraining from investing in assets with credit quality below the aforementioned threshold.

The fund complies with Directive 2009/65/EC.

The fund shall apply the commitment method for measuring exposure to market risk associated with the transaction of derivative financial instruments.

Underlying investments to this financial product do not take into consideration the EU criteria for economic activities environmentally sustainable.

The fund invests in other Collective Investment Schemes; however, it may not invest more than 10% of the assets in the same.

Temporary situations of less risk in the portfolio shall be permitted without that constituting any modification of investment policy.

The composition of the portfolio can be consulted in the periodic reports.

RISK PROFILE

The investments described can, among other factors, lead to stock market risk, currency risk, investment in emerging markets, and geographic or sector concentration, liquidity risk and use of derivative financial instruments. Sustainability risk. As a consequence, the net asset value of the holding may be highly volatile.

Market risk: Market risk is a general risk of investing in any type of asset. The market price of assets relies mainly on the developments in financial markets, as well as on economic performance of issuers which are, in turn, influenced by general economic conditions and by political and economic circumstances in their respective countries. In particular, investments are subject to:

- Equity market risk: As a result of the price fluctuation in equity assets. The equity market has, in general, high volatility which means that the price of equity securities can fluctuate significantly.

- Currency risk: As a consequence of investing in securities in currencies other than the currency of reference for the investor, a risk is assumed arising fluctuations in the currency exchange rate.

Investment risk in emerging markets: Investments in emerging markets can be more volatile than investments in developed markets. Some of these countries may have relatively unstable governments, economies based on few industries and stock markets where a limited number of stocks are listed. The risk of nationalization or expropriation of assets, and social, political and economic instability is higher in emerging markets than in developed markets. Stock markets in emerging countries usually have considerably less trading volume compared to a developed stock market, which leads to a lack of liquidity and high volatility in prices.

Risk of geographic or sector concentration: The concentration of a significant part of the investment in a single country or limited number of countries constitutes the assumption of the risk that the economic, political or social conditions in these countries have a major impact on the potential return on the investment. Similarly, the potential return of a fund which concentrates its investments in a sector of the economy or limited number of sectors will be closely linked to the profitability of companies in these sectors. Companies in the same sector often face the same obstacles, problems and regulatory issues, which means that the price of their shares can react in a similar and more harmonized way to certain market conditions. Consequently, concentration determines that variations in asset prices of the portfolio, results in a greater impact on potential returns than would be the case in a more diversified portfolio.

Liquidity risk: The investment in low capitalization securities and/or markets with reduced dimensions and limited trading volume can affect the liquidity of the investments which may negatively impact in the pricing conditions in which the fund may be forced to sell, purchase or change its positions.

Risks of investment in derivative financial instruments:

The use of derivative financial investments, even as hedging strategy, also carries several risks, such as the possibility of an imperfect correlation between the movement of the underlying asset in the derivative contract and the elements subject to hedge, which may not prove as successful as envisaged.

Others: Augustus Capital AM does not take into consideration sustainability risks for the fund's portfolio selection, since we do not have a risk integration policy in our investment decision process yet. This does not necessarily mean that the sustainability risks can not be significant. Augustus Capital AM does not take into consideration adverse effects over sustainability factors since it currently does not have a due diligence policy according to sustainability criteria related to those adverse effects.
