MONTHLY REVIEW

July ended on a positive note for Lierde and for global equity markets. During the month, Lierde reached a new all-time high net asset value of €157.01 per share, closing the month at €154.29.

The month was marked by the signing of the trade agreement between the EU and the US, which sets a 15% tariff and removes uncertainty over a potentially negative scenario of a trade war between the two blocs. The market reaction was muted, as it had been partially priced in beforehand.

On the other hand, macroeconomic data released during the month pointed to some slowdown in growth, as a result of business and consumer uncertainty caused by the continuous shifts in policy from the US administration. The earnings season has also failed to deliver upside surprises, given the uncertain environment in which companies have operated, although we expect an improvement following the agreement.

Since May, markets have remained range-bound, lacking the strength to break either higher or lower, awaiting greater visibility in the coming months. The ongoing bullish trend is supported by an earnings growth cycle that we believe will continue until 2026/2027, so we maintain a positive medium-term outlook.

Over the summer, and once tariffs are confirmed for all geographic areas, we consider it likely that there will be a pause in the upward trend. However, towards the end of the year, we foresee several positive catalysts for markets: an acceleration in earnings growth, a Federal Reserve more inclined to cut rates, European stimulus plans, and attractive valuations in the European market.
